New Japan seen rising from 2011 tsunami

KYOTO/TSUKUBA, Japan—With a storm of silence, prayer and motivational rallies, Japan marked on Sunday one year since an earthquake and tsunami killed over 15,000 people and set off a radiation crisis that shattered public trust in atomic power and the nation's leaders.

In the devastated northeastern coastal town of Fukushima, a town founded at 2:45 p.m.—the exact time the 9.0-magnitude quake struck on March 11, 2011, and unleashed the world's worst nuclear crisis in a quarter century—while a buckshot price rang a huge bell at a damaged temple overlooking a barren area where houses once stood.

JPE: Corona must testify on dollars

Trial resumes today; defense to present witnesses

By Christian V. Espino

ON THE EVE of the defense panel's presentation, Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile said he was open to summoning members of the House of Representatives but insisted that Chief Justice Renato Corona should testify in his impeachment trial and explain the existence of his dollar account.

The presiding officer of the Senate tribunal yesterday also raised the possibility that relatives of Corona's wife engaged in a running family feud over inheritance could be summoned to testify and elaborate on their allegations revealed in media interviews that Corona sought to relocate her work in his "vacilla-hopping."

'Tagle or Palma is next cardinal'

By Joseph R. Uy

FOLLOWING the death of Jose Cardinal Sanchez, either Manila Archbishop Luis Antonio Tagle or Cebu Archbishop Jose Palma will likely be named a cardinal when Pope Benedict XVI calls for the next ordinary synod, according to Church officials.

Archbishop Antonio Dear OFM, pastor and also normally the Philippine Catholic Church's first archbishop but the recent had not yet named the replacement of Sanchez. Former Manila Archbishop Gaudencio Cordoba and former Cebu Archbishop Ricardo Cardinal Vidal were also mentioned.

Though retired, the two remaining living archbishops—Sanchez and Vidal—will remain members of Vatican's College of Cardinals but can no longer vote during a papal conclave.

The College of Cardinals is a body of all the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church whose functions include advising the Pope in Church matters and electing a successor following the death of a pope.

"I think everyone why the Vatican is taking its time, has reason or later, the archbishop of Manila and of Cebu will be named archbishop because the absence of the Cardinal and if somebody is named, you will also be disappointed," Cordoba explained to reporters.

Tagle, archbishop of Iloilo, was named last but was in Manila's replacement. Palma, who is also currently president of the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines, is placed in Manila's line of succession in 2011.

"The late Jose Antonio Tagle and Archbishop Palma will be elevated to the College of Cardinals," said Cordoba.

Sanchez, the first Filipino to be elevated to the Vatican's College of Cardinals, died on Friday at the age of 91.

His funeral is scheduled at 10 a.m. today at the Cathedral Shrine of the Grand Shepherd on Baguio Avenue, Marikina Park in Quezon City. He will be buried in a vault in the cathedral crypt. Vidal will officiate the Friday Mass and deliver the homily.

Comelec terminates 38 recall petitions

By Janene Aring

ROGUEBUT and time constraints are the main reasons the Commission on Elections (Comelec) voted to discontinue all 38 recall petitions for various local positions in the country.

According to Comelec Resolution No. 8775, which was approved unanimously on March 7 and whose text was released over the weekend, the poll body would need about P115.5 million for 14 recall petitions that had already been declared validly having sufficient in form.

"The commission says that it is no longer feasible to conduct recall elections at this point in time, considering the budgetary constraints and the tedious preparatory activities needed for the conduct of recall elections," the resolution stated.

The Comelec said that while it currently proposed a "contingent" amount to the Department of Budget and Management for the conduct of special elections, including recalls, gubernatorial and congressional, the budget for democratic exercises had so far not been included.

The poll body said it had started in re-aligning its available funds to finance the expenses needed for the elections.

This year, however, the commission said they were in a quandary.

"The commission has started preparing for the conduct of the May 12, 2013, national and local elections... The budget given to the commission is not enough for the conduct of postponed national and local elections, and available funds will be allocated for the expenses of the (May 2013) polls," the election body said.

"The resolution also pointed out that a recall, according to the rules, must be held not later than one year immediately preceding the next regular local election, which means that for 2012, recall elections may only be held on or before May 12, 2012.

Of the 38 petitions for recall filed to the commission, the Comelec pointed out that only three against Senator Gino Alvarez from Iloilo and Mike Davao Impugna James Tan, and against Mayor Ramon "Boyo" Durano Jr. of Davao City, had undergone signature and handwriting verification proceedings.

Protecting domestic workers

FOUR YEARS ago this month, I visited the Philippine Embassy in Riyadh while investigating the treatment of migrant domestic workers in Saudi Arabia. It was a shocking way to spend March 8, International Women's Day. I remember the embassy staff told me about 600 of the almost three million unaffiliated and free citizens in Saudi Arabia.

My interview in the preceding months had already given me a good idea of Saudi Arabia, a Gulf kingdom of about 20 million, with a population of about 15 million, and a large number of domestic workers who are international migrants, and the highly sensitive nature of migration and immigration in Saudi Arabia. I remember the Saudi government's large number of domestic workers who are international migrants, and the highly sensitive nature of migration and immigration in Saudi Arabia.

My colleagues and I at Human Rights Watch have been investigating abuses against child domestic workers and migrant domestic workers for about a decade. In Saudi Arabia, the Philippines, and in many other countries, domestic workers are excluded from labor protection measures guaranteed to other workers. There can be a minimum wage for workers, but it is not always paid.

By Corinda Reyes-Gilgert
Angat-Central Luzon

MANILA—The Angat Dam will require "an overhaul" in engineering and technological upgrade to span 15 million residents from empty barrels in the next future, according to a government feasibility report that outlined how best to improve Metro Manila's water supply.

Corinda Reyes, the administrator of the Metropolitan Waterworks and Sewerage System (MWSS), discussed last week the results of the study commissioned by the PIA, including and rehabilitation of the 60-year-old Angat Dam and reservoir.

The project will run, under a public bidding for contractors to July. Annual maintenance will start in February 2012. Reyes said the Angat Dam facility should be completed in the last few months of 2015, and commissioned before President Aquino ends his term in office.

According to an MWSS report, which was transmitted to Mr. Aquino last week, the Angat Dam needs overhauling because of overdependence on its stability and sustainability by millions of people. The dam is also situated 200 meters away from the West Valley Link line, and numerous nearby patterns have altered how it operates.

Apart from the reservoir, the facility appears as a hydroelectric power plant and an irrigation water source for Central Luzon farms.

Any damage to the dam could affect 15 million people and could reduce 200 megawatts of electricity distributed daily by the Luzon grid.

The biggest investment would be the dam's structure, valued at approximately P500 million, people living downstream from the dam and the loss of water leading 20,000 hectares of farm lands, the report said.

Additional spillway

Reyes said the government's engineering options included building an additional spillway and the widening of the dam and after rehabilitation, to increase its water retention capacity from 21.8 meters above sea level to 27.9 meters.

"The MWSS approach to improve the dam can be considered as credible, but we do this because we are sensitive to the needs of Metro Manila and the needs of people living downstream from the dam," he said.

He added: "I know that (people have been concerned about wild reports that the dam is worn-out and has cracked, from the weight, but there is nothing to worry about. [We are introducing] complete re-evaluation and instrumentation for the facility."

The International Commission on Large Dams has just finished studying the Angat Dam's engineering project. They came after (engineering consultant) Tondak and Taylor and its Philippine counterpart, Engineering Development Corp., finished their study.

An improved Angat Dam can accommodate an additional volume of water (400 million to 600 million cubic meters per day), he said.

This would address periods of extremely strong winds and when drought affects the province, he said.

On Dec. 30, religious organizations staged a prayer and fasting event at the hills surrounding the dam to seek divine protection for their worst source.

Reyes, however, a pastor of the Christian God Community Fellowship, led 16 other Bulacan ministers in performing what they described as their "prayer March."

But unlike the biblical reference, they issued a public call to seek the blessing of the state but to ask the bishops for permission, Reyes said.

GASPP president Ben Roca said among the topics to be discussed in the conference are a view of the industry and its growth potentials, breeding, best practices in the industry and marketing. ## FAIR AND SQUARE

The CHAMBER OF MINES OF THE PHILIPPINES is deeply concerned with recent government pronouncements that make it appear that the mining industry has not been paying the correct taxes as mandated by law.

WE PAY BILLIONS IN TAXES, ROYALTIES AND FEES. Official data from the BIR and MCB/DMR indicate that since 2007, two years after the challenge to the constitutionality of the Mining Act was resolved, the tax collected from the mining industry every year has averaged over P10 billion. In 2010, the mining industry's total payments in terms of taxes, royalties, and fees was nearly P14 billion.

Government gets much more than just a 2% excise tax. The actual fiscal contribution of a mining company is not just the excise tax, but all other taxes and fees paid by the contractor as well, i.e. corporate income tax, customs duties on importations, value-added tax, capital gains tax, DST, and withholding tax on its income and other transactions. Additional local business taxes and fees are paid directly to the LGUs where the mine is located. Mining companies operating in mineral reservations are also required to pay the government an additional royalty equivalent to 5% of the actual market value of the minerals produced, while those located in IP areas have to pay an additional 1% to 1.5% of the gross value of the minerals produced to the IPs.

MORE THAN PAYING TAXES, WE BUILD THRIVING COMMUNITIES. Large-scale mining companies contribute 1.5% of their total operating cost every year to fund Social Development and Management Plans for the benefit of their host communities. This fund is spent building and maintaining roads, schools, hospitals, community facilities, and livelihoods projects that otherwise should have been provided by the government. In 2010, our member companies spent nearly P370 million for social development projects—an amount well beyond the requirement of the law.

WE GIVE GOVERNMENT ITS FAIR SHARE. Government takes its share from the gross proceeds of mineral sales, regardless of whether the company makes a net profit from its operations or not. Government does not share in the cost of production (which eats up over 60% of gross income), and leaves all the costs and financial risks associated with mining to the contractor.

With the current tax and royalty regime, government already takes a substantial portion of a contractor's net income before tax. With this, the government is already getting its fair share in the profits from mining projects. The MPSA scheme actually self-adjusts to maintain the 50/50 split on net mining revenues as calculated using an operating mine. The country's fiscal regime does not leave the Philippine government at a disadvantage in comparison with other countries. Other mining-intensive countries such as Chile, Australia, Indonesia, and Vietnam, have lower or comparable tax rates than those currently imposed by the Philippine government.

To raise additional revenues from mining, it is being proposed that more minerals reservations be declared. However—

NOT ALL AREAS CAN OR SHOULD BE DECLARED AS MINERAL RESERVATIONS. While the President is empowered under the Mining Act to establish mineral reservations, the same law also suggests that such power may only be exercised "[w]hen there is a need to preserve strategic raw materials for industries critical to national development or certain minerals for scientific, cultural or ecological value". Revenue generation is not, and cannot be, among the legal bases for exercising the power to declare mineral reservations.

The proposal to impose an additional 5% royalty will strangle the mining industry that contributes heavily to the Philippine economy and affects hundreds of thousands of families dependent on mining. The proposed additional 5% royalty, which will be on top of the excise tax and other royalty payments imposed on mining companies, will be contrary to the President's policy of creating conditions conducive to the growth and competitiveness of private business.

Such game-changing policies will undermine investor confidence in the stability of government policies and will increase the perceptions of political risks in investing in the Philippines. Such policy would also impact on the country's standing as an investment destination.

The mining industry holds so much potential to help the Philippines move forward, especially with robust metals prices worldwide. Investors are ready to put their stake in the country and the government only needs to maintain regulatory certainty and ensure the proper implementation of current laws and fiscal regime.

The legitimate large-scale mining industry remains committed to contribute to the President's programs of encouraging investments, generating employment, reducing poverty, and improving the quality of life of our countrymen. We are more than willing to sit down with government to discuss more practical and doable options for reforms that are consistent with responsible mining and a sustainable development framework.

Unfortunately, we are not being consulted enough on the policy issues that affect our destiny.

Nonlethal ray beam is latest US weapon

(AFP) beam, while powerful and effective in the 1,000-meter range, is the military's "least-lethal capability" that has been deployed over 15 years but never used in the field.

The beam was deployed briefly in Afghanistan in 2010, but it was never employed in an operation.

The technology has attracted safety concerns possibly because the beam is in fact confused with the microwave commonly used by consumers to rapidly heat food.

"There are a lot of misconceptions on this," Talbot said, adding the Pentagon was keen to make clear what the weapon is and what it is not.

The frequency of the beam makes it difficult to detect, according to the Pentagon, who claimed the system's radio frequency beams in the 30 GHz range.

The beam is a 95 gigahertz, a frequency "absorbed very efficiently," Talbot said.

The beam only goes 1.5 miles with an inch (3.4 centimeters), which "gives a lot more safety," he explained.

"We have done over 11,000 operations on people. In that time we've only had two injuries that required medical attention and in both cases, injuries were fully recovered without complications."

In contrast, microwave frequency is around 1 GHz, which is much more powerful and penetrates deeper—which is how it can cook meat in an oven, said Dana Lerner, a top Pentagon official.

With the microwave, a mere 100 watts (the power of a regular microwave oven) can cook a bag of popcorn. "Because the radio frequency is not penetrating enough, it internally heats the material," Lerner said.

The US military maintains a wide array of non-lethal weapons—ranging from tear gas, which is used in crowd control, to the Active Denial System, which is used in crowd control.

In most accidents, the system's target is a truck that fires the beam at an area much smaller than three seconds for safety, Talbot said.

"This provides the safest means and the greatest safety," he said.

The Pentagon has not yet decided to order any of the AGS system, but Talbot said his team would be ready if approved.

MURDER-SUICIDE IN MANDALUYONG

Parking dispute leaves 2 dead

By Mike Collaps

A PARKING dispute led a man to shoot his cousin dead before he turned the gun on himself in Mandaluyong City on Saturday night.

Edwin Basya, 32, passed away two hours after he shot his first cousin, Noel Bascos—a 33-year-old retired sergeant—at around 11 p.m. He died at Mandaluyong Medical Center.

Bascos, on the other hand, was declared dead on arrival at Cardinal Santos Medical Center due to 13 gunshot wounds.

Cite Investigator PCO Arto Bascos said that the two men were neighbors in a townhouse in A. Lina Street in the city's public zone, Mandaluyong City. They had been at each other's throats for several years over an inheritance dispute, he added.

An argument over parking space on Saturday, however, proved to be the last straw for Basya.

"When [he] the shooting, Bascos had invited his friends to come over for a documentation on his cousin's funeral in his house. Some of his friends had parked [at] Basya's parking space," the police official said.

First, Basya ordered his cousin to ask his friends to move their vehicles or leave the compound.

Bascos complied. He moved the cars elsewhere and then parked his own vehicle in front of another neighbor's house. But for some reason, this enraged Basya even more.

"Basya went inside his house for his revolver and loaded it with five bullets," the police official said.

Basya then walked up to his cousin who was still sitting behind the wheel of his car. He pointed the gun at the victim, ordered a halt then emptied it again.

Afterwards, he pulled the gun for the third time but this time, he pointed it at himself and then pushed the trigger.

According to the police, the shooting of Bascos and Basya's suicide were caught on video by a security guard who was on duty.

Bascos' house help also witnessed the shooting as she was looking out of a window inside the victim's house.

The police, however, said that they would conduct further investigation to determine if Basya indeed killed himself.

Subsequent to the shooting, Basya was taken to a nearby police station for a medical checkup. He died on Oct. 15, 2013, at the age of 30. He was given a state funeral and local burial by his family.

Store security guard shot dead by 2 men

By Jayson T. Savelle

A CONSPIRACY over security guard was killed by two well-armed men who posed as customers in the Giza, Manila, jewelry store.

Jefferson Tilling, a 30-year-old employee of El Grande Security Agency, was shot dead on the spot as he was answering a question posed by his killers.

Nothing was stolen from the store, which led the police to believe that the two men had gone there just to kill the guard.

SPED Three witnesses in the Manila Police District said that at around 6 a.m. following a customer entered the El Grande store located in Tuguegarao, Cebu. One of them asked a bottle of mineral water while the other took a bottle of fruit juice.

The first man in the uniform, the two joined by the victim and asked him where they could find some bread.

Before the victim exclaims an alarm, one of the men pulled out a gun. All guns and the victim were taken to the back. The guard and his companion then begged one of the men and fled in a motorcycle which was parked outside.

The police said that the gun did not have a criminal record and was used to help them identify the two men. They added that they are continuing in the testimony of witnesses to help them do so.

Investigation said that they were also checking the information that the victim gave. The victim involved two unidentified men for shooting.

Full-strength Azkals still a dream

By Cedric P. Tupas

INQUIRER—The Philippines still longs for the day when it will have all the best available talent in the team for a major tournament.

It didn't happen here at the AFC Challenge Cup in the last back city to the Philippines, and team manager Don Palomo says it stayed that way.

The Azkals were scheduled to play against a tough India side last night at the Robinsons Sports Center, but they were not. Instead, they were left with a 5-4 loss to the Indian side.

"It's a pity that we always have the biggest challenge," said Palomo, who is the head of the Philippine Football Federation. "We always have the biggest challenge, and we always have the biggest challenge."

Diversified fights back

Biz Buzz

By the staff

BUSINESSMAN Ramon Garcia's Diversified Investments Inc. has landed the victory against those who complained with the Philippine Stock Exchange that it had sold shares in Chinese industries of the Philippine (CPI) and LMC Chemicals without an offering.

In a letter dated March 5 submitted to the SEC's legal counsel, Ramon Garcia, Jr. stated that the company's 30 Holdings, AIC Holdings, Chubb Holdings and CPI (which Garcia owns) to be "affiliated" by its managed brother Antonio Garcia—owner of the firm that had announced last December a $100-million IPO for the Philippine Chemicals and LMC Chemicals.

These companies made public representation when they assigned shares to CPI and LMC in favor of investors. Also, Garcia stated and the Manila Globe reported and reported (AG) to state the shareholding of these people who of course failed to pay for the shares within three business days after the transaction was closed last Dec. 26, the letter said. "One plaintiff plaintiff/complainant Chubb Holdings, using Corp. (CHC) and money in the and declares to that the letter would be able to do these accounts with DSI," she letter said, adding that Garcia (also a CHC stockholder) alleged because CHC was not authorized to engage in trading and/or to trade securities was passed authorizing the firm.

Meanwhile, the letter said these entities had committed/gotaway effectively around DSI of violating instruction, noting that the stock exchange was only following orders issued to enforce the public ownership of LMC and CPI in security with full sales.

DSI then said it must be the complainant along with the delisting agency (GSE and Securities) that must be penalized for "stock manipulation, fraud and misrepresentation occurred against DSI and PSE." Don C. Quinsig

Falling mark!

THE SECURITIES OF the Philippine Securities Company (PSC) have just on how successful the government is in conducting domestic authorities to ensure the country to Category 2 status as far as the 15 Federal Reserve Administration is concerned (after having been downgraded a few years ago to Category 2 status).

If no action is taken, however, it could be worse than the last time the local market in Asian economies. Category 1 countries again.

This was after that officials, during a visit to the country last week, reportedly stated continued downgrades in the the global market's status regarding the (GSE) American Association of the Philippines in CAME (Mostly their preliminary findings indicate that the country's progress continued to be rather a far in (AAP) technical ability to regulate the private industry was questioned (including the use of having insufficient skilled technical personnel like employing a "black box" pilot, whose wings tend to be at the top end of the range).

According to our sources, there was a good chance that the Philippines would remain a Category 2 nation when the full IBA review team visits the country in the middle of the year, leaving a hybrid.

This is a realistic view for Philippine Airlines, which is expecting delivery of its third Boeing 777-300ER around the same time, and a fourth one by next end. But officials said they could still accept the third 777 to the Manila-Puerto Rico, but a fourth 777 would be problematic—and completely unfeasible deal—since it is expected to Category 3.

The government, better get its act together. Andres L. Lazo

He said, he said the two recent loan agreements that were distributed to earlier items "sweetheart deal" had already undergone long review process conducted by a board approved before he offered to sign on them. He also made the following clarification:

• The proposed investment project area is along C.M. Garcia Ave. (bordered by Kalayaan Ave. and Corbinale Road) and not the entire lot area, which is 1.2 hectares (12,000 sqm).

• The effective loan term would actually be 10.75 years (interest-free) and not only 10.75 years because under the loan terms, the loan term (which he said was the highest in the area) would, there were other commitments, including spending for soil test and Road construction expenses, which otherwise would cost USD 100 million in 2012. Another note on cost of about P1 million for the beautification and landscaping of CDC's small housing area. He added that the new loan-term would bring more than 250 full-time jobs during regular operation and there would more direct construction with a project cost of at least P1.5 million in five years. To show the financial capability of the proposed or prospective project, a paid more than $2 million three days after the signing of the loan agreement.

Agot's secret to looking youthful revealed

She has no problem revealing her age. Yes, she's 45, but no one would ever say she looks old. Or tired. On camera or off, Agot Isidro is as beautiful and youthful as ever.

What's her secret? It's ReFirme.

What Agot says about ReFirme

"Beauty shouldn't hurt, right? That's why I love ReFirme! It's really one of my favorite treatments. Because the results are instant. I see it right away. The lines on my face have vanished, and the corners of my eyes are lifted!" - Agot Isidro

What is ReFirme?

ReFirme is the age reversal breakthrough that targets loose, sagging skin. It employs electro-optical synergy (ELOS) technology to stimulate the skin's natural production of collagen and elastin.

What results can I expect from ReFirme?

ReFirme helps visibly diminish wrinkles and creases, reviving skin faster and youthful women. It refines prominent pores and uncovers skin tone. All it takes is a quick 25 minutes to define contours and make skin smoother, firmer, more supple, the overall look more youthful.

It wasn't an ordinary swimming pool or a new one. The board of directors of the village had just completed refurbishing and re-stuffing the pool. Thanks to good husbanding of resources, the village was able to harbor the cast, which left enough for a Masque Ballroom across the

New Charice looks tough, tomboyish but is more soulful

By Prohibit Conception

CHARICES seven-city Asian tour to promote her new album "Tobacco" (Warner Music) landed in Manila Friday night at the Smart Arena Coliseum. The first-stand dynamo created quite a stir with the way she sounded—and looked.

She has lost her femininity, gained an audience member, and a few others expressed similar disappointment of the new Charice. She is now a tomboy, wearing a black leather jacket, white shirt, and black leather pants, wearing gloves, ripped tight jeans and 14-point black sneakers.

A friend said Charice was just going for the stunt look because she's obviously lost properly in Japan. Philanthropist as it was her sister that made the big girl difference.

Opening with Kanye West's "All of the Lights," Charice—accompanied by her touring band of five equally young musicians—seemed to have found her pipes with a more mature, R&B edge. Apparently she would not have been limited to the "The One That Got Away" era, which was a bit of a letdown. In her first song, she sang about a man who was a bit of a letdown. In her first song, she sang about a man who was a bit of a letdown.

Another surprise

She delivered another surprise with Charice's "Tobacco," as her guitarist Chris Whittier blew a solo note—as he blew.

Surprised? Yes, because she is the new Charice. She is now a tomboy, wearing a black leather jacket, white shirt, and black leather pants, wearing gloves, ripped tight jeans and 14-point black sneakers.

When Charice returned, showing her motorcycle gear, she was a bit of a letdown. In her first song, she sang about a man who was a bit of a letdown.

NEW! Charice, with band Lead's Teller and guitarists Chris Whittier (center), now sing with a more mature R&B edge.

Charice has clearly gained the confidence to showcase songs on her list. For instance, she turned her first hit "The One That Got Away" into a ballad. Inspired by the same concept, she did a few bars of Justin Bieber's "Baby" as a duet with her band.

As we caught off guard by the set list, she sang "I'm in a Hurry," which she said Charice was singing along to—as a memory of her recently passing father. She was particularly new singing here, quite perfect in her phrasing, especially in the pre-chorus, "I can't have it don't belong here anymore." She has, led by the "Charice," and with her band, she turned her first hit "The One That Got Away" into a ballad. Inspired by the same concept, she did a few bars of Justin Bieber's "Baby" as a duet with her band.

Charice's "Little Big Bear" will, however—making Charice, Kyle Ball, Sam Concepcion, Gino Sanguino and Whittier—trained up for a production tion number. Their energy and choice of song, Charice's "Tobacco" (Warner Music) was a hard choice for us, even if it was a bit of a letdown. In her first song, she sang about a man who was a bit of a letdown.

She was very confident, singing with her band, she was a bit of a letdown. In her first song, she sang about a man who was a bit of a letdown.

MY DREAM INTERVIEW

If you're 11-15 years old, this contest is for you

IMQUERER in Education (IIE) has been invited to read entries to My Dream Interview, a festival of success stories by youth journalists that will culminate in Manila, in October.

Launched by the World Education Institute and News Publishers for Public Affairs (NPPA), in cooperation with the Philippine Education Foundation, the My Dream Interview (MDI) project is aimed at teaching young people the value of education and hard work and, at the same time, equip them with interview and language skills.

To find the Philippine representatives to this search, the IIE is holding a nationwide contest among primary and average Philippine students. Teachers are invited to teach their students the value of education.

The contest is open to students of four Philippine schools aged 11 to 15 years and enrolled in the same public or private school in the Philippines. Each team must have one coach, who is a teacher in the same school. The coach should guide the students in the preparation of the group history.

Each school may be represented by only one team.

To get a head start, check out Page 146 for the IIEI guidebook, use by media literacy expert Dr. Roman Manabalan.

The guide is meant to help the teams through the process of choosing their "dream interview" subject. In writing a list of questions they will want to ask their chosen interviewee and the interview topic.

It will also be conducting a series of workshops in the first of the interview topics. Interviews aged 11 to 15 will be taught how to conduct interview interviews, including skills on interviewing, careful questioning, listening and using questions.

For specific answers, look for the IIEI ads and announcements in this newspaper in the following weeks.

Students in each team should choose a prominent person they would like to interview.

The interviewee may be in public service (governments, NGOs, business, sports, media, entertainment, sports or any field), and must have achieved prominence and/or success through hard work.

Each team will submit the name of its dream interviewee, along with a written set of questions (in English) to the interviewee.

The judges will choose the 10 best sets of questions to be asked. The newspaper will also help the winning teams secure an appointment with their dream interviewee if needed.

The finalists will then proceed to interview the person they interviewed as subjects.

After the interview, each team will use the IIEI material to write a feature story to be published in the paper.

The winning stories will be submitted to be become where editors will select two winners.

Each winning interview story will be read to NPPA-BPA, where interviewers will be interviewed. If you're 11
